Built by a therapist, for therapists

"I've used all sorts of clinical software over the years, at all sorts of prices. Working for myself as a solo practitioner, I kept finding the features I needed locked behind prices built for big clinics.

Who's looking after the little guy? Me. That's who." Mike, sports therapist and founder of booki.

Easy to switch

Export from your current system, drop the file in, and AI maps your clients, appointments, and invoices onto booki. It even catches exports that arrive cut short, so nothing goes missing on the way over. Most practices switch in an afternoon.

One price, everything

No feature gating, no per-seat surprises, no "upgrade to unlock". £19 a month covers every feature for up to five practitioners. Email reminders are free and unlimited; SMS is optional, from £18 for 250 texts, and credits never expire.

Built for the workday

Calendar-first design, a cash desk that works like a till, notes that lock for clinical governance, QR payments from the chair, and a waitlist that re-fills cancellations by itself. It's the in-between minutes, handled.
